Art Unit: 3624

DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is in response to amendment filed 1/18/2005.

Response to Amendment/Remarks

2. Applicant's arguments filed 1/18/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

3. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

The applicant argues that Remington does not teach or suggest that the bill payment instruction be communicated from the client computer to the bill processing server as recited in the independent claims 1 and 14. However, the examiner has relied on the Remington patent for teaching that a client computer receives bill information and remittance information directly from the biller and not from the bill processing server. The examiner has not relied on the Remington patent for teaching that the bill payment instructions be communicated from the client computer to the bill processing server. The applicant also alleges that Remington teaches away from a centralized arrangement by providing for return of the payment instruction to the biller. This argument is not persuasive because the examiner has not considered Remington in isolation but only for modification of the Kitchen reference.

4. The applicant has not provided any explanation which would render the combination of Kitchen in view of Remington improper. The examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, one of ordinary skill would have readily recognized the benefit of receiving and viewing the bill information and selecting means for initiating bill payment instruction from the biller and not from the bill processing server as clearly indicated in the motivation statement. In other words, one of ordinary skill in the art would have recognized that the combination of communicating the bill information and the bill payment information directly to the client (as per Remington) and maintaining the processing of the bill payment of the bill processing server based upon the bill payment instructions (as per Kitchen) would provide economic incentive (reduced services of the bill processor) over the Kitchen system.

Based on the foregoing arguments, it is asserted that the rejections of claims 1-25 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) over Kitchen and Remington references as cited in the previous office action are proper and are maintained.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
